

DAILY RECORD

SATURDAY, AUGUST 23, 1873.

The Business Office of the PICOCHE DAILY RECORD will hereafter in the office of H. R. Breakey, at Michael's cigar store, Main street, opposite Meadow Valley.

WHOSE OX IS GORED?

The Alta California says the State of Missouri is trying the game of repudiation, and states the case in the following terse style:

Twenty years ago, for value received, she paid to the Federal Treasury, in trust for certain Indian tribes, $73,000 in State bonds which are now about to fall due. They were issued when gold was the only legal tender, and they promised, by implication, if not by explicit language, that the state would pay in gold. Now the state offers payment in greenbacks, and the Federal Treasury very properly refuses. The moral is that people must be careful how they buy Missouri bonds. Such conduct as that of Missouri tends to injure the credit of all the States in the European market.

Now, in all candor, we submit that United States currency is either a legal tender in payment of all debts, whether contracted before or after the passage of the Legal Tender Act, or else currency is not a legal tender. It cannot be both legal and illegal at the same time. The Supreme Court of the United States has affirmed the validity of the Legal Tender Act, and the Federal Government pays its employees in currency, whether or not the original contract called for gold payments. But when some of its own paper is offered in payment of a debt incurred before the Legal Tender Act was created, the Federal Government says no. If John Doe, prior to the passage of the Legal Tender Act, had agreed to pay to Richard Roe a sum of money, it would have been understood to mean cash, but payment falling due after the passage of the Act, the tender of currency in payment would have been legal. The same principle applies in the case which has arisen between the State of Missouri and the Federal Government, and the fact is, that the United States Government is trying the game of repudiation.

THE OUTLOOK IN CALIFORNIA.

It is not too much to say that no party in California can afford to lose the vote of San Francisco. That city has just three-twentieths of the Assembly, and will hold the balance of power wherever the dominant party has not an overwhelming majority. The Alta, which is looked upon as pretty good authority, and is not supposed to have any such bias as would give to any of its statements a Democratic coloring, has given an opinion on the probable result of the approaching election, in which the following sentences occur:

It looks just now as if the Republicans of San Francisco were to be slaughtered on election day without mercy. The Peoples' Union has a fair prospect of coming from there to five thousand votes, and when that number is taken away from the Administration party, the Democrats will have no difficulty in carrying the day, if they can get up such unanimity as they usually show when a great prize is within reach. The present situation suggests to us the fable of the two cats quarreling about an oyster. They are represented in Fay and Carr, and the Democracy is the monkey about to clean out the inside of the bivalve, and give a shell to each of the disputants. The collective power of public plunder seems to be the exclusive privilege of the untried and unwashed. Republicanism has not been able to reach to that sublime virtue which preserves the unity of the organization amidst the division of the spoils.

DESTRUCTION. - Henry Edgerton made a speech at Sacramento on Saturday evening last, in which he denounced the letter of Grant to Colfax, conveying an unqualified expression of confidence in his integrity and honor after his complicity in the most despicable infamy of the century, as a deplorable moral obliquity on the part of the Chief Magistrate of a great nation, and an insult to the moral sense of the age. The causeless removal of the Empress of Japan and the appointment of a political castaway in his own State, covered with the scandals of the Credit Mobilier, was a discount on fidelity and a heavy premium on villainy in office. The approval by the President of the increase-of-salary bill received a severe handling.

PERHAPS the most significant proof of the real strength of the "Farmers' Movement" in the West is afforded by the fact that the Catholic farmers of that section, being, by their faith, debarred from joining any secret society, are organizing granges of their own to co-operate actively with the original organizations. This, more than anything else, decides the universality of the movement among the agricultural classes of the West. It needed but this apparently separate, but, in reality, co-operative, action of the Catholic farmers, to reveal the fact that all the Western farmers are a unit for their stand against political corruption. The movement has become formidable. Who can tell how soon it may be irresistible.

GARRETT DAVIS AND BACK-PAY. - The Cincinnati Commercial publishes the following card from R. T. Davis, of Paris, Kentucky:

Your issue of to-day contains a list of Congressmen who have not repaid their back salary. You suggest one error in the list, and I will point out another. The name of my father, Garrett Davis, heads the list from Kentucky. He died September 22 last, and as his executor I received an account of his compensation, etc., less than seven hundred and fifty dollars - at the old rate. His estate has received no back pay, and I presume is not entitled to any.

THE agitation has been revived in Rhode Island for the repeal of the property qualification that limits the suffrage in that State; but it already appears that the Radicals are utterly opposed to such a measure, and that it will not be permitted to make any progress. The Providence Journal, edited by United States Senator Anthony, is conspicuously vehement and bitter in protesting against the repeal of the restrictive clause.

THE Cornucopia fever has abated. It never created much of a stir in these diggings.

Telegraphic Dispatches.

SPECIAL TO THE PICOCHE DAILY RECORD.

Eastern Dispatches.

The Big Chief in Texas - Great Fires in the Woods of Michigan - Railroad Accident in Ohio - The Philadelphia Body-snatchers - The Demand for Cheaper Transportation - The School-Tax - A Chinaman Imprisoned in New York - Terrible Affair in New York.

GALVESTON, Texas, August 21. The Indian Chiefs Santana and Big Tree arrived at Houston yesterday, under a guard from the Penitentiary, on route for Fort Sill, where a council is to be had between Secretary Delano, Governor Davis and the Kiowa and Comanche tribes, with a view to future peace.

DETROIT, Mich., August 21. Great fires are raging in the woods of Jackson county, Michigan, near the villages of East Tawas and Tawas City. The latter place is in danger.

CINCINNATI, August 21. The Chillicothe accommodation train on the Marietta & Cincinnati Railroad, about 4 o'clock this evening, collided with a freight train, wrecking both locomotives and the baggage car. Not a passenger was hurt except one, who, being in the baggage car, was slightly injured. Three trainmen were killed - James Perring, brakeman; Mr. Howard, baggage-master; and Charles Calther, fireman. Edward Rafter, engineer, and Walter and Rhodes, express agents, are all badly scalded. The accident was caused by the freight train running out of time.

PHILADELPHIA, August 21. Disclosures made by the Police Department today reveal a sad state of affairs at the City Morgue. The body of Thomas Munce, a wealthy farmer of Washington county, who left his home in the early part of July last, has been found pickled in a dissecting room of the University. It had been sold to the College by some one connected with the Morgue. The family of the dead man were in the city today, and identified the body. The discovery was made by finding the watch of the deceased in a pawn office, where it had been pledged by one Wm. McEwen, who was the driver of the Coroner's wagon. Munce was found drowned on the morning of July 31, and McEwen removed the body to the Morgue the same day. On the 5th it found its way to the College. McEwen has been arrested, and an investigation is being further pushed. The Deputy Coroner states that he holds the receipt of the Superintendent of the city burial ground for the body. It appears that at the time of the inquest the deceased's name was not known.

NEW YORK, August 22. Ben. B. Sherman, Chairman of the Merchants' Committee in Chicago, is arranging for a mass meeting to advocate cheaper transportation between the East and West, has informed his associates that nearly five hundred prominent firms have signed the call, while many branches of the trade have not yet been canvassed. Mr. Sherman says the movement was welcomed by all merchants with whom he had conversed, and he knew of no issue that had ever met with such general approbation. The canvass for signatures to call for a meeting is to be continued until all business interests have an opportunity to be represented.

The corporation counsel has written to the Department of Education that denominational schools are not entitled to any part of the money which the city raises by tax for school purposes.

John A. Lason, a Chinaman, was sent to Ludlow street jail on a charge of attempting to swindle a cigar merchant out of $5 worth of cigars. The counsel for plaintiff show how John, a short time ago, married a colored lady of means, and later, obtained seven hundred dollars from the woman, whom he sent to Belleville laundry, and having made another thousand by his peculiar practices, attempted his operation in cigars on a Mr. Solomon.

Michael Broderick, who has been drinking for some days past, quarreled this morning with his mother-in-law at their residence, No. 81, Carmine street. One of Broderick's daughters, becoming alarmed at his violence, called to her brothers in an adjoining room to save their grandmother. James, aged 19, ran into the room, and endeavored to take his father away, when the latter turned upon the youth, and stabbed him fatally. Another brother, John, now came upon the scene, and was in turn stabbed by the maddened father, but not fatally. The cries of the family and neighbors attracted the police, who after a great struggle, succeeded in pinioning Broderick and taking him to jail, where he expressed himself ignorant of any quarrel or murder having taken place. Owing to the beating and excitement, the old grandmother lies in a critical condition. Broderick and his sons were cartmen, and because of liquor were frequently quarreling.

Foreign News.

Shipwreck and Loss of Life in the Sea.

LONDON, Aug. 22. Dispatches from Alexandria give particulars of the loss in the Red Sea, near its eastern entrance, of the freight steamer from Singapore and Shanghai for London. The captain, officers, and some of the crew were lost. Thirty-six of the men reached land but fell into the hands of the Somalies, a Mohammedan tribe on the shore of the Gulf of Aden, and are held prisoners.

Pacific Coast.

Died of his Wounds - Fire at Mountain View - The Young Divorce Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 22. The first number of the Independent Defender will be issued to-morrow. A Chinese tri-weekly paper is to be issued. If the type from China don't come by the Quong See, the proprietors will procure parties here to manufacture it.

The Chinese heads of six companies have made application by letter, asking the appointment of some American citizen resident here, to act as Consul in this city for that people.

James Neil, who was wounded by an unknown man Tuesday night, died today from the effects of his injuries. He was struck on the head with some sharp instrument, and was very weak from loss of blood when taken to the hospital.

Desire Deslaurie, who pleaded guilty of manslaughter in killing Ramon Mott, was sentenced to two years in the State Prison.

The trial of the boy Bryan, for the murder of a Chinaman is not yet concluded.

Charles Barton, colored steward of the ship Carrier Dove, was found drowned in the Bay today. He had been missing since Sunday.

MORSTAIN VIEW, CAL., August 22. The store of Wellheimer Brothers, of this place, was totally destroyed by fire last Wednesday night. Loss, $18,000. Insured for $10,000.

SALT LAKE, August 22. Judge Emerson sustained defendant's demurrer in the case of Ann Eliza Young vs. Brigham Young, for divorce, against the jurisdiction of the District Court. The Judge held that the Probate and not District Court had jurisdiction in divorce cases. This is in direct opposition to the opinion of Judges McKean and Hawley, and virtually of the Supreme Court of the Territory. The case again comes up before Judge McKean in the October term of the District Court.

Rev. C. C. Stratton, a Methodist minister, offers to vindicate himself in a long card in the newspaper to-day from the charge of influencing Ann Eliza Young to enter a divorce suit and join the Methodist Church. He makes grave charges against her lawyers, and asserts they attempted to fleece his client. He admits acting as her confidential adviser.

A WASHINGTON correspondent says that during a recent civil service examination in the Interior Department, the candidates for admission to clerkships were asked to state the distance of the planet Saturn from the earth. One candidate answered that he was unable to state the distance in miles, but did not think it was sufficiently near to interfere with the performance of his duties as a clerk, nor to beget in him a desire to meddle with the rings.

The train on the Baltimore and Ohio road that carried the Washington steam fire engines over to the fire actually made the distance of 40 miles, between the two depots, in 35 minutes. It started 18 minutes after the fire alarm was sounded at the depot, to call engines there, and in 70 minutes after giving the alarm the steamers were at work on the fire in Baltimore.

The next General Assembly of Kentucky will contain thirty-two Democratic and six Republican Senators and in the House eighty-one Democrats and nineteen Republicans.

Our advices from Montana announce the election of H. N. Maguire as Probate Judge of Gallatin county.

How HE WAS CAUGHT. - It will be remembered that Nash, the Contra Costa murderer, was arrested at Battle Mountain last week. How he came to be arrested is shown by the following letter addressed to Mr. Brown, attorney for Mrs. Gersback, and dated at Truckee, August 7:

Hear my statement. Read it to that innocent woman. The landman that she gave to that man I forced her to do it; the cotton oil he got I gave it to him, and the chloroform also. I gave her love powders and brought her to ruin by giving her Spanish fly and forced her to take part in that deed, threatening her with death if she refused. I want you to do all you can for her and get her clear. Tell her to do the best she can to get clear, if it costs her all the money she has got. Tell her if she wants money to write to Garden Prairie, Boone county, Illinois, to my sister, Auguste Tong, who will write to me. I don't feel discouraged, but keep in good spirits, for God will be with her. When she gets out tell her to come to my sister in Illinois. Tell her to send directions where she lives. Mr. Brown, do all in your power for her, for she is entirely innocent. The whole thing is my fault. He swore that he would take my life, and attacked me with an ax and cut my left ear off before I did anything. I had cause for doing it or I would not have done it. This time next week I will be in New Orleans. Tell her to direct her letters to me to Salt Lake to Edward Rose, and he will send the letters to me. I read her confession, and what I say is God Almighty's truth. I think as much of her as ever and more. When she gets out tell her to come right straight home. You may publish this, if you wish. Yours respectfully, F. N. Well.

Tell her to send directions where her folks live in Buffalo.

People may judge me wrong, but I do not feel that I am.

ONE OF THE PIONEERS. - The Vallejo (Cal.) Independent relates a pleasing incident in the career of a pioneer of 1846. It says:

Major Stephen Cooper, who presided over the first political meeting ever held by the Americans at Yerba Buena (San Francisco), was in Vallejo yesterday with his son-in-law, Ames Roberts. The Major was a soldier in the war of 1812. He crossed the plains to New Mexico in 1822, and "fought a Government expedition into that country in 1825. He came to California in 1846, and was the first Alcalde for all the country north of San Pablo Bay and west of the Sacramento river, settling at Benicia, where he built the old adobe brewery building, now standing. He now resides in Colusa county, and owns a fine ranch of 700 acres, well improved and irrigated, adjoining the town of Colusa. The Major is now in his seventy-eighth year and looks hale and hearty. Long may he live.

The people of the prosperous town of Vineland, New Jersey, held the twelfth anniversary of the founding of their town by Charles K. Landis, on the 8th inst. The spiritualists attended, and Mrs. Victoria Woodhull made a characteristic speech, in which she said that there wasn't a person in the world that knew absolutely who his father was; that to her certain knowledge there were some persons who thought they knew their fathers, but who were wonderfully at fault in this thinking; that it didn't matter whether the child or any one else knew its father; that marriage was a safeguard, other ways than people thought of; and that she would wage war against it until it should be "wiped from the otherwise fair face of civilization."

GLEANINGS FROM EXCHANGES.

All the people of Dalton, Murray county, Georgia, have gone to digging for a living. They have long been dreaming of rich gold mines in the country, but never could locate them exactly. A Cherokee Indian of eighty odd years, has just dropped in upon them from his reservation, to see the old country of his tribe, tell a secret and then breathe his last, and be buried on the former Cherokee dumping ground. His secret was that there is plenty of gold near Dalton. The Indians had opened mines but had filled up the shafts and all traces of their mining operations when they left the country, in order that their white neighbors would not find out their discoveries. He was going to die. Civilization was a fixed fact, and he had come a great distance to tell his secret. The gold-dreamers of Dalton believed the story, every word of it, and when the old fellow took them up the mountain to the place where they found filled up shafts, exactly as he told them they would, all the people were convinced that there was something in it - the earth. They are, therefore, digging, and will probably dig up the whole country before they stop. Then if they plant the right sort of seed, they will surely find gold. The plow is a good mining implement, and that old Cherokee is doubtless a good Indian. - [Missouri Republican.]

A MEXICAN, named Sebastian Flores, a student of Francisco Garcia, of San Leandro, Cal., in a most shocking manner. It seems that Garcia, at some previous time, testified against Flores in a trial for murder, and the latter had been seeking a chance to revenge himself. The parties met in a saloon kept by one Peralta, and after getting some of the worse for liquor, an altercation ensued, which Garcia commenced by striking Flores in the face. Flores then drew a large pocket knife and cut Garcia in the face, from the forehead down, just missing the eye. He then seized him by the beard and cut his whole under lip so nearly off that he could not speak, and he did not know what he had done, cut his throat on each side, nearly severing the wind-pipe. Flores then made his escape, leaving Garcia nearly dead. Flores was afterwards arrested. Garcia is still alive, but his wounds are supposed to be fatal. They are old offenders, both parties have served a term in the State Prison.

It is probably not generally known that a Commission of lawyers has been at work since 1866 codifying the laws of the United States; yet such is the fact. The process, as described by an Eastern paper, has been for the Commissioners to examine, compile, collate, condense, and even present substitutes where they were germane. These compilations and codifications were prepared under separate titles, and a copy sent, when completed, first to the Department and Bureau, whose work was embraced, for suggestions, and then to Congress, through the President, for revision and acceptance. In this way the new Postal Code has been adopted. Hon. Thomas C. Durant reviews the laws as they are selected, and re-arranges and classifies them under appropriate headings. His duties are extremely arduous, as may be inferred when it is stated, that the titles to the Indian treaties alone embraces 1,600 octavo pages, and that concerning post roads, to nearly 500.

The following players have already entered for the coming grand billiard tournament: John F. B. McCleery, John H. Mott, Jr., William W. Wait, Lance Perkins, William Ferri, Q. Desota and James Farquharson. The games will be 25 points each, to be played on a five-by-ten Jacob Strahle & Co. Grecian carved carrom table. Delaney's patent steel-wire cushions attached; each playing with every other player, and the one winning the greater number of games to be declared champion of the Pacific coast at the three-ball carrom game. The prizes consist of a valuable solid silver challenge cup, manufactured by Vanderslice & Co., of this city, and $650 in gold coin, and are all presented by Jacob Strahle & Co. In addition to the above, it is expected that the principal billiard rooms of the city will unite to present two California gold quartz lockers for the best general average and the largest run. - [S. F. Call.]

The morals of Massachusetts do not seem to be improving. In 1870, the number of illegitimate children born was 285; in 1871, the number had increased to 482 - an increase of fifty percent in a single year. The still-born children also are largely on the increase. In 1870, the still-born numbered 1,019; in 1871, these little lives increased to 1,390. Of course, the number of illegitimate and still-born is always much understated; and there seems cause to fear the Massachusetts standard of propriety is deteriorating.

Any hard steel tool will cut glass with great facility when kept freely wet with camphor dissolved in turpentine. A drill may be used, or even the hand alone. A hole may be readily enlarged by a round file. The ragged edges of glass may also be thus smoothed with a flat file. Flat window glass can be readily saved with a watch spring saw, by the aid of oil of turpentine. In short, the most brittle glass can be wrought almost as easily as wood by the use of cutting tools kept constantly moist with camphorized oil of turpentine. - [Ex.]

MR. LEWIS T. HOFFMAN and wife, of Albany, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding, at Boston, July 25th. Mr. Hoffman is the oldest printer in the country, after Thurlow Weed, who was the editor of the first American printed paper, the Day News, and afterwards of the Black Rock Beacon. The immediate family of the venerable pair consists of three sons and one daughter, and no death has occurred in this extensive family circle in a period of thirty-six years.

In several of the Southern States, where, previous to the war, no cotton factory existed, there are now a number in operation, doing a prosperous business. Charleston, S. C., has two or three mills, whose proprietors claim that they can manufacture yarn, ship it to the North, and realize on it a net profit of five cents per pound, after deducting commission and other expenses, and that a certain class of colored goods, sent North, can be sold at a profit of ten cents a pound.

NEW FREIGHT LINE MOOTED. - Pritchard is seriously considering the advantages of putting up a freight line from Ogden to Eureka via the old overland road. The curious thing about this is, that the proposed route will run parallel with the railroad for about 400 miles. Comment is unnecessary. - [Eureka Sentinel.]

NEVADA STATE ITEMS.

[From the Eureka Sentinel, Aug. 21.]

THE SPOILED MURDER. -In order that the officers might not have their plans frustrated by the publication of the mysterious disappearance of a man named C. B. Green, no notice has been previously made of the circumstances. Sheriff Sullivan had vigilant measures adopted as soon as he was put in possession of the facts in the case, and desired that nothing be said publicly until he had consummated his plans. The missing man Green when last seen was in charge of a band of twenty-five horses belonging to him, about four miles north-east from Eureka, on a grazing range. He was a man of sober, steady habits, and his sudden disappearance on Saturday last excited suspicion of foul play for the officers. It was thought that he might have been got out of the way by parties who desired to run off his stock and ultimately become possessed of them. This suspicion was borne out, too, by the circumstance that two of the animals had been sold at a figure much less than their value, a short time after their owner was missed, by a suspicious character, whom the officers are now in pursuit of, with a fair chance of capturing. But a search of two days by the white men and Indians employed by the Sheriff failed to discover any traces of the body. Mr. Green formerly resided at Walla Walla, Washington Territory.

REWARD. -Sheriff Sullivan offers a reward of two hundred dollars for the discovery of the body of the missing man Green, or a liberal portion of that amount for any information that will lead to his whereabouts if he is living. Green, it is said, is an American, about forty years old, light complexion, with small chin whiskers and a full face. He was last seen on the road from Eureka to his ranch, a week ago yesterday, when he appeared to be in his usual condition of health and spirits.

TOWNS GOVERNMENT. -In a month or two people will commence putting up their stores for Winter use. Would it not be well to have the Commissioners empowered to enforce some kind of regulations relative to stove-pipes? We think it would. Every pipe should be securely riveted and provided with a suitable collar where it passes through the roof or ceiling. This is a matter which should claim the earnest attention of property holders.

THE NEW MINES. -Mrs. J. F. Ramsey yesterday permitted us to read a letter from her husband who has been spending some days in the new mines. Mr. Ramsey pronounces the whole thing a fraud, and advises people to remain at home, and not go to the mines. He says when he wrote, and said he would start for the Base Range immediately.

Walker House.

HAVING THIS DAY PURCHASED THE Walker House, we are now in possession of the two best hotels in Salt Lake City. Of the Walker House we deem it unnecessary to say anything in its behalf, its splendid design and elegant equipment being so well known to the public.

THE CLIFT HOUSE, though not so well known as the Walker House - having been open but a few weeks - is first-class in all its appointments, the building being new and the furniture of the most fashionable and elegant style. The location of this house is central and commands a splendid view of the lake and ever snow-capped mountains and surrounding scenery. Its local reputation is superior to that of any other house in the city.

With the above facilities at our command we feel assured in guaranteeing satisfaction to all. Respectfully, etc.
